UPDATE

SUFFOLK, VA (December 30, 2011) The saga of “Eggs” the pig has ended. She was adopted out today to a family in Suffolk that has a farm.

In addition, the family adopted a rooster from Suffolk Animal Control. The rooster has subsequently been named “Bacon”.

“EGGS-CITING” ANIMAL LOOKING FOR A NEW HOME

SUFFOLK, VA (December 28, 2011) Ever wanted to adopt that perfect new animal member of the family and not been able to decide which one to choose? Will it be the cuddly kitty or maybe “man’s best friend?” Perhaps you need to broaden your scope and just settle back for a heaping helping of “Eggs.”

“Eggs” is a one-year-old, black, female potbelly pig currently up for adoption through Suffolk Animal Control. Eggs weighs around 65 pounds and is described as a “hot mess!” She is talkative (for a pig) and is great with kids and other animals.
